Description:

The best companies and most successful salespeople live by a three-word mantra—all about them—because when they relentlessly focus their brand on their customers instead of themselves, their businesses flourish. All about Them shows readers how to use this simple but extremely powerful influencing technique. Bruce Turkel, who has advised some of the worlds greatest companies, including American Express and Bacardi, lays the groundwork by relating his personal journey of discovery to the All about Them principle. He goes on to explore our technology-driven, hyper- connected culture; the power of storytelling (and story-selling); brand authenticity and transparency; and more.

All about Them shows readers how to use this simple but extremely powerful influencing technique. In brief, in our increasingly interconnected world, successful companies make their relationship with customers the top priority. Further, as author Bruce Turkel says, "Branding is the relationship between you and your customer and it does 2 vital things: #1. Reinforces the purchase they make. But more importantly, #2 Pre-inforces the purchase," as explains in this book, including highly relevant "story-selling." This is akin to what Peter Guber, in Tell to Win, dubbed a purposeful narrative in which other see a role they want to play in the story and thus are spurred to share it. The core theme is that companies most likely to thrive actually do put their customers first. In so doing they inevitably not only deepen customer loyalty they also are more likely to:

- Get customer insights on how to improve what they offer
- Motivate customers to recommend them to others
- Make employees more motivated to perform well and to stay

As a renowned brand builder for years Bruce Turkel can writes from first-hand experience. To further spur you to buy his idea-packed book see his interview here:[...] This book of actionable insights reflects the "pull" rather than "push" approach that's still practiced by many firms despite the growing capacity of buyers to make informed choices and to resent being flooded by irrelevant messages. This book is an idea companion book to The Human Brand, UnMarketing, Buyology, and What Clients Love.
